(MCCLLOUD, CA – March 15, 2005) – Dave Palais the Nestlé Waters North America (Nwana) representative working to build the Arrowhead bottling factory in McCloud will now be available on a weekly basis in McCloud. Residents will now have the opportunity to speak with him directly on a regular basis regarding the project.

“I want to be as available as I can to the residents of McCloud and southern Siskiyou County and having a meeting space with a dedicated day and set hours where members of the community can come by and talk one-on-one about the project is important,” said Dave Palais, Natural Resource Manager and project leader for Nestlé Waters North America in McCloud.

Mr. Palais will use the meeting space located in the McCloud Community Resource Center where he will be available to members of the community every Friday from 9 am to 4 pm, except when holiday or travel schedules do not permit. Should Friday’s fall on a holiday or if Mr. Palais is traveling, he will post a note the week before designating another day during the week when he will be available.

“This is a great opportunity because it provides a new means for Nwana to support the McCloud Community Resource Center while at the same time allowing me more opportunity to interact directly with the residents of McCloud. I look forward to being able to answer questions, deliver information and hold conversations with individuals in a more direct manner, providing both residents and myself a chance to get to know each other better,” concluded Mr. Palais.

Mr. Palais’ first day at the McCloud Community Resource Center’s meeting space will be Friday, March 18th from 9 am to 4 pm. The following week he will be there on Thursday March 24th from 9 am to 4 pm. Please feel free to just drop by.
